Civic, Labor Leader Backs Proposition

Richard T. McAllister, former president of the San Mateo County Labor Council and former San Mateo city councilman, today joined the fast-growing ranks of prominent citizens who have banded together to urge all voters to cast their ballots for better county government by voting "yes" on County Proposition "A."

San Mateo County government involves millions of dollars, McAllister pointed out:

"County business is the biggest here today; it operates on a budget of over $7,500,000 which affects the welfare of every one of the 250,000 persons living here. It is vital that these millions be so well spent that we receive the best possible government for every tax dollar.

"And how is that possible with the present outmoded, cumbersome, two-headed type of county plan we now have? We have two heads—the county executive and the board of supervisors—both elected, neither responsible to the other, duties of each not clearly defined, resulting in lack of cooperation, duplication of effort, wrangling and unnecessary expense.

"For 11 years we have struggled along under this strange set-up.

"The Citizens Committee for Better County Government offers the solution. Proposition 'A' provides that a county manager be appointed by the board of supervisors, under civil service procedure. The county manager would be non-political, chosen from the three top candidates for the position, screened by the civil service commission.

"As a long time resident and worker in San Mateo County who takes great pride in this county, I urge every voter to mark 'yes' on County Proposition 'A.'"

RC Joins Bay Area's Navy Day Celebration

The 12th Naval Dist. opened its warships and its Bay Area shore installations to the public yesterday, joining in the national observance of Navy Day.

In many communities officers told civic groups of the navy's role in World War II and of its latest advances in naval research.

There was increased emphasis on submarine, anti-submarine and air warfare developments.

Destroyers were available for public visiting during Navy Week at San Francisco, Oakland, Vallejo, Richmond, Redwood City, Monterey and Santa Cruz; submarines at Monterey, Oakland and Stockton, an aircraft carrier in San Francisco and an escort carrier at Oakland.

Docked at the Port of Redwood City and open for public inspector was destroyer, USS rived Tuesday.

The San Francisco naval shipyard offered a look at the world's largest crane, its huge repair and construction plants, Bikini target vessels, a mothball fleet and submarine training facilities.

The Oakland naval supply center, through which go all supplies to Pacific Ocean areas and ships of the Pacific fleet, showed off the machinery behind the navy's biggest grocery job.

Latest model naval aircraft were inspected at Alameda Naval Air Station, which has the only naval jet engine repair shop on the coast.

Mare Island offered a look at ship repair work and the large naval hospital. Other open houses were scheduled at Moffett Field, Treasure Island and the Oakland Naval air station.

Name Catton Kin In Divorce Suit

Mrs. Phyllis B. Catton, 518 Rutherford Ave., Wednesday was granted an interlocutory divorce decree from Joseph Catton Jr., son of a well-known West Coast psychiatrist.

Superior Judge Edmund Scott granted the pretty, 24-year-old brunette, all of the community property, including the home, and physical custody of their 17-month-old son, Michael. Legal custody of the child is held jointly.

Mrs. Catton accused her husband, a 27-year-old engineer, of extreme cruelty. She charged that on several occasions he struck her while he was drunk. On Apr. 17, the date of the separation, she had him arrested for assault and battery, but the case was dismissed in justice court.

A witness, Mrs. Joseph Forbes, 525 Rutherford Ave., testified that on one occasion Catton hit his wife so hard that she was knocked down.

The couple was married in Virginia City on Apr. 30, 1946. Mrs. Catton's father-in-law, Dr. Joseph Catton, has testified in a large number of criminal cases, including the Honolulu "revenge slaying" in which Clarence Darrow was defense attorney. Dr. Catton is author of the book, "Behind the Scenes of Murder."

Plan Inquest In Child's Death

Pending a report from a pathologist, officials will not be able to determine the illness which brought sudden death Monday in San Bruno to Harvey Crosson Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Crosson of San Francisco.

The child became ill at the O. A. Olson home in San Bruno, and efforts of a fire department inhalator squad and a physician to restore consciousness were unavailing.

Fire Destroys Tractor On DeBenedetti Ranch

Gasoline spilled on a hot tractor motor was listed the cause of a fire which early Tuesday morning destroyed a tractor and shed valued at $2400 on the DeBenedetti Ranch 14 miles south of Pescadero.

According to the County Forest Service, Joseph Delamora was filling the gasoline tank on the tractor in the shed when gasoline came in contact with the hot tractor motor and ignited. Delayed

Scooter Theft Laid to Youth

The theft of a motor scooter from Stanford Village last May was cleared up last Monday night when Menlo Park police arrested a 16-year-old East Palo Alto boy.

Police Chief George Potter said the boy had taken the scooter and ridden it to Palo Alto where it stalled outside a laundry. He parked the machine behind the laundry and told a laundryman he would return for it.

After the lad failed to return all Summer, the laundryman reported the presence of the scooter to police. Through a description of the boy, he was traced and arrested last night.

Chief Potter said the boy had been involved in several other thefts last Spring. He was released to his parents' custody pending appearance before the San Mateo County probation officer.

Officer Robert Pogge and Chief Potter made the investigation and arrest.

RC Man Faces Burglary Trial

William E. Carpenter, 21, Mayfair Hotel, 828 Main St., was held to answer to superior court on a charge of burglary Tuesday by Police Judge W. H. Thorpe.

Carpenter was arrested, Oct. 9, after Julian Uglum, 411 Woodside Rd., told police he was missing some $53 after being out with Carpenter.

Don't Be A LEGISLATIVE BEGGAR

vote NO on proposition No. 13

(The Senate-packing Reapportionment Scheme)

prevent left wing radical bosses from making legislative beggars out of you and your communities!

HERE'S WHAT PROPOSITION No. 13 DOES TO YOU:

- IT makes your vote worthless by turning over absolute control of Leglislative Government to the four coastal metropolitan areas of California.
- IT scraps the "Federal Plan" of check-and-balance representation in Senate and Assembly — a plan tested nationally by over 150 years of Congressional law-making under which metropolitan and non-metropolitan areas have a dual voice in government.
- IT paves the way for a return of bossism in even more vicious guise than existed before Left-Wing Radicalism was injected into modern power politics.
- IT tells rural California, and the inland cities, covering 94 per cent of the State's area, and producing most of the State's new wealth, to keep quiet about the affairs of their Government.
- IT concentrates the power to tax—which is the power to destroy—in the hands of big metropolitan interests and substitutes class conflicts for the understanding and cooperation now existing between city and country dwellers.

IT MAKES YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS LEGISLATIVE PAUPERS

Don't let this happen!

Rally your voting strength; tell your neighbors and friends in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Oakland how you feel about this scheme. Get out a 100 per cent "NO" vote on Proposition No. 13. YOU'LL NEED IT TO DEFEAT THIS SENATE-PACKING POWER GRAB!

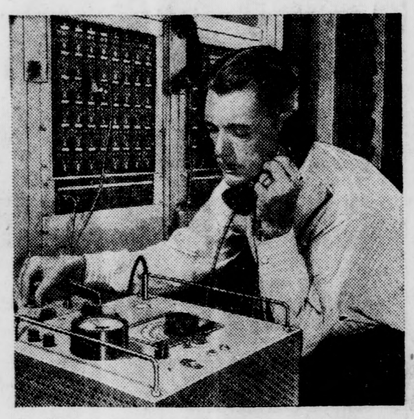
WHERE WHISPERS TURN TO SHOUTS

How outpost repeater stations keep your long distance calls at almost home-town clarity



1. Your voice gets a boost in repeater stations like this one. For currents fade on the lines and without amplifiers, your voice would soon be lost. The equipment can literally turn a faded voice into a roar. Much of it requires only periodic check-ups like the one the technician is giving it here.

2. Vast Western distances make it necessary for us to build stations all along our cross-country lines to keep your voice going through with normal clarity and volume. On some lines repeaters are spaced 70 miles apart. On others they're as close as 8 miles. You may have noticed some of them from the highway.

3. Specially-trained men keep a 24-hour watch at key stations. When they spot possible trouble they get a crew on the job in a hurry . . . often before lines go out. For putting cross-country calls through reliably, with cross-the-street clarity, is part of our job of furnishing the best possible service to the West.

4. When you make a telephone call, you hire a valuable servant at low cost . . . a more useful servant than ever. It can do more jobs . . . run more errands. For today there are twice as many telephones in the West as ten years ago. Thousands more go in each week. And each new telephone added makes every other telephone more useful.

GARDEN: Bees Continue To Yield Large Quotas

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

H. M. Krebs reports that bees in the United States are making a big money yield—206,935,000 pounds, with better than 10 per cent of it coming from California. How apt the apiary simile—busier than a bee! I don't know what the weight of a bee is, but when you consider that each colony in this state is averaging 51 pounds of honey, and how little nectar can be transported at one time, you can see how busy the bees must be.

I can just hear the bees talking about our airforce! "They keep talking about their Operation Victuals to Berlin, Buzhumph! If they were as efficient as we are, they could really talk. We could feed all of Europe if we had their wing spread."

You might think the bees in states with wide deserts would average less honey per colony—states like Arizona and Utah and Nevada. However, they averaged 49, 55 and 61, respectively. The states where colonies made the poorest yields were South Carolina, 13 pounds; Kentucky the same, and West Virginia, 18.

Well, nectar in flowers attracts bees, which play an important role in pollinating not only garden ornamentals but vital agricultural crops.

Mrs. Miles Bullock of Visalia writes: "Would formaldehyde solution kill the eel worm that causes the root-knot on plants? If so, how should I use on a small spot. If formaldehyde is not good, what is? I would like to use the ground this fall for it is on the south side of the house."

Formaldehyde is powerful stuff, but not what is recommended for eel worm, alias nematode. It is suggested you dig furrows six inches deep and 12 inches apart and pour in one quart per hundred feet of furrow a solution of 10 per cent ethylene dibromide and 90 per cent thinner. Fill in each furrow after putting a pint on 50 feet, in order to keep the gas in the soil. Or of course you can drill staggered holes 12 inches apart and six inches deep, and pour in three teaspoonsful of solution in each hole.

What initials! Anyway, T. B. Plummer writes: "Nearly everyone, or neighbors, has gallon size glass bottles stored away, or they put them in the garbage can.

"If these had bottoms removed they would make excellent forcing caps for young or transplanted flowers.

"If the bottle is chilled and hot water poured in, bottom usually cracks off fairly evenly, or if chilled bottle is put on hot stove, the same thing happens.

"Perhaps some of your readers know of a quick practical way to remove bottle bottoms more efficiently.

"Just think how handy it would be to have waste bottles converted into glass forcing bells for early spring vegetables and flowers."

Providing the bottoms come off and don't leave a dangerous cutting edge, these gallon jugs might do more good as covers than as containers. I'd suggest getting the bells which cover donuts and crullers in beaneries, but these don't have openings at the top with which to regulate ventillation.

Plants can't live without sufficient fresh air. Don't put your house plants in drafts, but don't expect them to thrive in rooms which don't have sufficient fresh atmosphere. They must take carbon out of the air in order to make growth.

Pres. Mrs. Geo. Politis of the California Herb Society has chosen fennel as the "Herb of the Month.". At the October meeting, Annette Johnson reviewed a book "Healing Herbs of the Upper Rio Grande," by L. S. M. Curtin. You might check your library for a copy if you're interested in medicinal herbs.

Individual containers cost very little, less than 40c per 100. You can make them out of milk cartons also. Plant your strawberry chard in such containers, and you can transplant them easily, with less loss of plants than if you sow in rows and have to thin. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope without delay for your free trial packet.

Accountant Held In Shooting Case

Robert F. Moyer, 68-year-old accountant who was arrested Oct. 6 on an assault charge, was held to answer to superior court Tuesday by Redwood City Police Judge W. H. Thorpe after pleading not guilty.

Moyer was arrested after he allegedly struck his son-in-law over the head with an empty whisky bottle and later put five shots through a door behind which the younger man, Moyer's daughter and four other persons were hiding.

The arrest was made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mangen, 1653 Lenolt St., his son-in-law and daughter. The shooting took place, police said, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hillman, 1618 Lenolt.

The altercation followed a dispute between Moyer and Mangen over a bottle of whisky.

San Carlos Girl Scout

MISS LOIS LITTLE, district field director for the Sequoia Girl Scouts, has selected San Carlos for the starting place of her current visits of Scout troops. She will call upon all the Intermediate and Brownie troops for the purpose of assisting leaders and seeing troops in action. Miss Little's services are available to any troop at anytime and leaders need not wait for her scheduled call, she said. Arrangments for an earlier appointment may be made by calling the Girl Scout office in Redwood City.

TROOP 36, led by Mrs. Nordhagen, was visited by Miss Little when it held its regular meeting at the Scout Little House recently. Troop 53 will be the next on Miss Little's tour. Troop 54 and their leader, Mrs. Linke, entertained the director on Thursday.

A MEETING OF THE MOTHERS of the Girl Scout Troop 72 was held at the home of Mrs. W. Oates last Tuesday. Committees were appointed to help with second class and proficiency badges and plans were made for a skating party as well as a Christmas party.

The following attended: Mmes. D. Batsford, V. Davis, B. Hoffman, H. Hunt, J. Angoglia, M. Kuehn, J. Milne, I. Prendle, R. B. Shears, J. H. Suderman, R. Owens and N. Pennington.

TROOP 49 held its first meeting Thursday at the Community Church.

The troop leader, Mrs. L. B. West, said the girls' mothers may take a part-time vacation for the next few weeks since the girls will be taking over many household duties." The troop has chosen the Homemaking Field and at present are working on requirements for the housekeeper badge.

One meeting each month will be devoted to work toward the music badge. Mrs. C. J. Sirex will again conduct the girls in singing. The song "Sing a Song of Friendship" has been selected.

Auto Catches Fire, Police Quit Chase

Four San Bruno police officers early yesterday were forced to abandon pursuit of a speeding car, in which a woman was lustily shrieking for help, when their police car caught fire in South San Francisco.

At 3:30 a.m. Sgt. Adolph Fernandes with Officers Dee Barker, Jack Doris and Steve Bottassi were driving away from the San Bruno police station when two cars, speeding side by side, headed north on El Camino Real. From one of these cars a woman screamed for help.

The police car, with Fernandes at the wheel, went in pursuit. The two fleeing machines ignored the police siren and increased speed. The police car developed motor trouble after entering South San Francisco and became enveloped in smoke as the underside burst into flames.

The officers were forced to abandon the car, but before leaving it Fernandes radioed ahead ahead to north county police to stop the escaping cars.

The Inside Story of a Good Egg

To really know how good an egg is you have to know what's inside. How can you know that? Very simple. Just look for the grade on the carton.

Grading is done by experts who look inside each egg with a strong light and compare what they see with government standards. Eggs that meet the standards are labeled Grade A, Grade B, and so on. Eggs whose quality does not measure up are discarded. Grading is your most reliable guide to quality.

Every egg we sell is graded. And to protect their quality we take special care to keep them cool. That's why you will find eggs in the refrigerator at the store.

GARDEN: Questions Pour Into Rolly's Office

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

Usually when a seed offer is made in this column, enough questions come in to write an encyclopedia with the answers. Before dipping into the deluge accompanying the current offer of free strawberry chard seeds, let's take up a few pre-offer questions.

Since boxwood shrubs for hedges are quite expensive, Mrs. F. D. Helm asks when cuttings should be propagated. The answer is immediately, using cuttings of mature wood, sliced clean, with a sharp knife.

"The most satisfactory plants in my yard, as far as production of food is concerned, are thornless Young and Boysen berries. They take up little space on the boundary fence and require little care except pruning off the old canes after bearing, and of course water and a little fertilizer. The second year after planting, you enjoy a good crop, and there is nothing that tastes so good as berries off of your own vines. Three or four vines provide berries for the average family. I know we would give up almost everything else in our yard before we would give up our berry vines."

No argument contra—and vine planting time will soon be here.

Mrs. P. R. Bray writes that she has advised her brother against using soil from the basement of a house 30 years old, "because it has been so long without the necessities which make a good soil."

If this soil had the organic matter which is an essential of a top soil for lawns, then if it were spread on top, and turned several times during the course of a couple of weeks, I believe it would be satisfactory. However, if it comes from a depth, it probably lacks the humus, which must be added.

Fred H. Loth in Rio Linda has been growing tomatoes for several years but finds now that the fruits grown on plants from original seed, variety unknown, are woody at the core. I would suggest he change to Improved Pearson for canning this coming season. Fruits are earlier than the "canners," and more and more commercial canneries in California are contracting for Pearsons.

"I have always been very proud of my beautiful lawns until recently," writes Mrs. R. Regalia. "The soil is full of angleworms (enormous ones). If you are familiar with them you'll know that they come up through the grass and leave a mound of dirt about an inch high.

"My lawns are both peppered and as a result, they both need rolling and reseeding. I have spoken to the different nurserymen about it and they tell me how wonderful they are for the soil.

"The worms are spreading to the neighbors' yards now and they are unhappy about it. Can you advise me what to about it. I've used the soil fumigant and it hasn't helped."

Earthworms can certainly mar a lawn, or a well-aimed put on a golfing green. A greenkeeper suggests a remedy he's found to work. "Add two ounces of corrosive sublimate to 50 gallons of water to be applied on every 1000 square feet of lawn. As soon as it is on, sprinkle the lawn thoroughly, to wash the sublimate down."

If you use this substance, be very careful, for you shouldn't get it on your hands, and the containers used should be thoroughly cleansed immediately afterwards.

Earthworms are helpful in garden soils where the little mounds are of no consequence. The aerating of the soil which the worms accomplish, and the way they digest organic matter, making it better for plant life, are reason enough for encouraging them—except in lawns.

Feed your lawn a little every month remember. And if you follow a monthly schedule, I DO mean a little. A half to three-quarters of a pound of commercial balanced fertilizer per 1000 square feet should be enough per month. By dissolving your fertilizer in water first, you can get an even application, using a good sprinkling can. At least you can, once you're used to the can. (A canny statement).

Judge Studies Bullock Charge

A suit brought by a Woodside woman to recover $5000 from the estate of the late Joseph J. Bullock, well-known Peninsula criminal attorney, was taken under submission Monday by Superior Judge Aylett R. Cotton.

Miss Mary Irene Baldie, former stage dancer, charged that Chinese furniture taken by Mr. Bullock as part of his fee for handling an estate litigation far exceeded the $500 which she owed him by contract.

The furniture was part of the estate of George Graham, San Francisco ink tycoon who when he died left Miss Baldie $50,000 cash and $6000 a year for life, according to her attorney, Jonathan Rowell.

Rowell said that the $5000 demand was lowered to $1500 after an expert estimated the value of the furniture at about $2000.

In a cross-complaint filed by Frank Kington, representing the Bullock estate, the estate is seeking $3000 from Miss Baldie for attorney's fees earned by Mr. Bullock.

Vets May Reinstate Insurance

Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service officer, advised World War II veterans they can still reinstate their National Service life insurance. Some veterans, Granger said, are under the impression they can no longer obtain this government insurance. World War II veterans who can pass a physical examination may reinstate their lapsed insurance at any time.

The deadline for reinstating National Service life term insurance without a physical examination was July 31, 1948. Prior to the deadline, a veteran could reinstate lapsed insurance by certifying that his health was as good as it was when the policy lapsed.

Veterans may reinstate their insurance at any time by passing a physical examination, and if the policy has lapsed less than three months it still can be reinstated without taking the physical examination.

Two San Francisco men were injured, neither seriously, in a headon automobile collision on Coast Hwy. Tuesday night.

Gillette Lane, 61, and Mariano F. Anchita, were treated by a private physician.

The accident occurred a half mile south of the San Pedro Rd. According to the California Highway Patrol, Lane said that he lost control of the car he was driving when he was blinded by lights of oncoming cars and his car crashed headon into a car driven by P. S. Tabar, 42, of San Francisco, in which Anchita was riding.
